- Private sector data included where applicable

Market Competitors

Austin, City of	Leander, City of
Bastrop, City of	New Braunfels, City of
Bee Cave, City of	Pflugerville, City of
Boerne, City of	Round Rock, City of
Cedar Park, City of	San Marcos, City of Georgetown, City of

Private sector data from the Economic Research Institute for the Central Texas region

Director and managerial level position matches for the City of Austin excluded or adjusted for size and scope

Additional comparators for Police and Dispatch positions include Hays County, Travis County, Williamson County, and Austin ISD

Selection of Benchmark Positions

- Benchmark positions are those jobs that are commonly found at most of the competitor employers
- No such thing as a “perfect match”
- Benchmarks are defined as 70% similar duties, responsibilities, and Knowledge, Skills, and Abilities (KSAs)
- Data collected for 80 current positions and 10 future positions

Application of Survey Data

- Midpoint-to-Midpoint analysis – the traditional method of analysis for public sector surveys
- Use the midpoint as our point of comparison because it is the most objective, consistent component of salary structures; comparator agencies have salary structures with varying range width
- Midpoint theoretically represents value for journey-level employee performing job duties and responsibilities with proficiency
- Do not prefer to compare actual salaries as that can be affected by longevity, cert. pays, other factors
